

Dear Prospective Applicant:

Congratulations on choosing a field that actively protects, serves and saves communities throughout the world. We at the International Safety Equipment Association (ISEA) recognize your ambition, drive and dedication. Our mission is to be the catalyst that ensures safety products are better, conforming, understandable, and used.

In that regard, we know the expenses associated in choosing this educational and career path. ISEA, actively working to enhance the field and entry of college students into the fields of occupational health and safety, developed the Daniel K. Shipp scholarship fund in early 2018, dedicated to the safety and health profession. As we are all working through this pandemic, we know that individuals are desperately needed on the frontlines and in research to combat COVID19. To ensure we have passionate and dedicated individuals entering this dynamic and ever-evolving field, ISEA is now accepting applications for the annual Daniel K. Shipp (DKS) Scholarship Fund.

This legacy is to honor the past president of the ISEA, Daniel Shipp who retired in 2017 after 25 years of exemplary leadership. As a pillar of the industry, Mr. Shipp firmly placed ISEA as the "voice of the safety equipment industry". He skillfully melded the hard work of our members, with his staff's untiring efforts, to develop and implement our benchmark of standards making, government relations and knowledge-sharing strategies. The positive impact to our member companies' performance is undeniable, and the health and life saving impact for workers is inspirational.

We cordially invite you to be part of this legacy and continue to enhance the fields of the safety and health profession by applying for the scholarship.

We offer this annual scholarship in the amount of $2,500, open to all college undergraduate students who have completed their first year; enrolled in majors geared toward a safety and health career (including, but not limited to, environmental science, fire protection, health physics, industrial engineering, industrial hygiene, occupational health and safety). We believe that providing financial assistance to students in the pursuit of education related to safety and health will continue to encourage new generations to enter the safety profession.

The application, overview, scope and requirements are attached below. Good luck and we look forward to receiving your application.

Sincerely and with gratitude,

President, ISEA

Digital Application Submission Deadline: 11:59 pm EST, August 8, 2020

OVERVIEW

The Daniel K. Shipp scholarship was created to encourage the study of environmental and occupational health, safety, and related disciplines. The program is open to all college undergraduate students currently enrolled in majors geared toward a safety and health career (such as, but not limited to, environmental science, fire protection, health physics, industrial engineering, industrial hygiene, occupational health, and safety).

We believe that providing financial aid to students in the pursuit of education related to safety and health will result in safer workplaces and healthier environments. We instituted the Daniel K. Shipp scholarship as a legacy program to encourage new generations to enter the safety and health profession, and to help defray educational costs to eligible candidates as they pursue a career in the field of environmental and occupational health and safety. The annual award amount is $2,500.

SCOPE

The scholarship award is available to undergraduate students who are enrolled in majors geared toward a safety and health career (such as, but not limited to, environmental science, fire protection, health physics, industrial engineering, industrial hygiene, occupational health, safety) who are currently registered as full-time students in North America. A full-time student is one who is carrying 12 credit hours per semester, trimester or quarter. Applicants must have at least one full year of study remaining in their degree program.
